CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—An effort to show that the defense attorneys have not always held the same
opinions upon mental diseases
which they now deliver from the witness stand in the hearing of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold
Jr. for the murder of Robert Frank, was made today by the State in the cross-examination of Dr. William Healy, Boston psychiatrist.State's Attorney Crowe read from a book written by Dr. William A. White, the defense alienist who preceded Dr. Healy on the stand, and got the witness to say that he did not agree with the statements.
Dr. Healy then turned the tables
by asking the date of the book's publication and disclosed that it was written in 1909."Nothing written on the subject of mental diseases in 1909 can be regarded as representing modern thought on the subject," he said.
With frequent consultation with State alienists, Crowe then launched a line of cross-examination devised to develop the theory that Loeb was simply the very well-known habitual criminal.
Pointing out that Loeb started at an early age with petty thefts and gradually enlarged the scope and seriousness of his offenses, culminating with kidnapping and murder, Crowe asked if it was true that this was the regular course taken by habitual criminals. The doctor couldn't say whether it was or not.At the afternoon session at one time the alienist fell into a trap laid by the State's attorney, aided by a State alienist, and Crowe demanded a jury trial but the court
brushed the incident aside and continued the hearing.Cross-Examination Opened.
Crowe opened the cross-examination in a satirical vein. "You demanded that you be not overpaid,
did you doctor?" he asked. "Yes,"
was the blunt reply.
"If they had insisted upon paying you any more, you wouldn't have taken it, eh?" "I wouldn't unless my associates agreed to take it."How many forms of perversion
did Leopold practice upon Loeb?"
came another blunt inquiry. Here
the defense counsel interposed
with objections, and Judge Caverly
ruled that the cross-examination must be conducted privately
as the direct examination had been. Dr. Healy whispered a few

SWITZERLAND is preparing
its national expedition
which will attempt to ascend Mount Everest where the English failed. The leader of the Swiss team, scheduled to start in the spring of 1935, is a well known Swiss alpinist,
who already has had experience
in the Himalaya Mountains.
His assistants will be some of Switzerland's best climbers,
none over 35 years old.The Swiss intend omitting the heavy oxygen apparat-

American college students, now playing at the Piccadilly Hotel, has caused the general council of the Trades Union Congress to take action against what the council feels is a menace to British employment.Bill Tillet headed a delegation to the Minister of Labor, Tom Shaw, and urged that American musicians and other performers
here should be subjected to the drastic restrictions which, he said,
apply to British performers in America. The engagement of the American boys at the Piccadilly Hotel said, may break down an agreement with the musicians' union,
under which the London
hotels bind themselves to employ 50 per cent of British musicians.
The Minister of Labor promised an investigation, and said he would also consider subjecting the earnings of foreign artists to an income tax.

trip abroad. The Bear will proceed largely by sail as efforts to repair the propeller which was broken when the Bear was caught in the Arctic ice pack were unsuccessful.Capt. Cochran of the Bear stated that the vessel was in good condition except for the damage
to her propeller. The cutter Mo-

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Premier

The session, which was held at the Premier's official residence in Downing street, lasted but 30 min-

were accompanied from Harlow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A Noah's Ark laboratory in the heart
of a six square-mile jungle has been successfully opened by scientists right in the world's greatest timber highway. David Fairchild, chief plant explorer of the Department of Agriculture, has sent his colleagues here word of the inauguration of this scientist's
paradise. Barro Colorado Island,
in Gatun Lake, Panama Canal Zone, was formed when the valley
was flooded by the impounding
of the waters of the Chagres River
to form Gatun Lake. It resembles Noah's Ark in that there gathered as the waters rose nearly every form of animal life in the vicinity seeking escape from the rising flood.Despite the fact that it is only two miles from the Panama Railroad and a week's journey from New York, it has been found to harbor amphibians, reptiles and strange habits as yet unstudied and innumerable species of insects never described,
as well as many strange and exotic
plants, numbering 2000 or more.
It abounds with ant eaters, sloths,
armadillos, peccaries, tapir, agouti,
coatis, the ocelot, the jaguar,
many species of bat, monkeys of various kinds and the famous black howlers.Set aside by Gov. Morrow of the Canal Zone as a natural park in which all life is under Government protection, the island has been chosen by the Institute for Research in Tropical America as the site of a tropical laboratory where scientists may make their studies.
Half a dozen well known scientists began the research work this summer.

By the Associated Press.GARY, Ind., Aug. 5.—At least three workmen were killed and six injured in a blast furnace explosion
late last night at the plant of the Inland Steel Co. It was learned today.Property damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 was caused by the explosion, which resulted from the ignition of furnace gas probably leaking from a crack in the brickwork. A foreman in the plant, was recovered from the wreckage early today. It was the only body recovered today. Nystrom had returned from a vacation last night. Tons of brick and steel were hurled into a tangled mass by the blast. Debris was flung several blocks in all directions. "Concussions of the shocks
were reported to Gary newspapers
from points several miles distant.
Newspaper reporters and spectators were barred from the scene,
and officers of the plant refused to reply to inquiries as to the extent of the damage. Rescue crews still were working on the wreckage this afternoon.

from Hornafjord on the cross-Island hop of the round-

of the inner harbor, making fine landings. The two pilots with their mechanics, Lieut. Louis P. Arnold and Lieut. John Harding Jr., were feeling well and their machines were in good condition.The army flyers had to fight a gale that rose to a velocity of 40
to 60 miles during their 310-mile flight. In the afternoon the wind attained a velocity here of about 70 miles from the northeast, causing anxiety for a time as to the fate

HORNAFJORD, Iceland, Aug. 5.—
The American army airplanes, on their world flight, hopped off from Hornafjord at 9:15 o'clock this morning for Reykjavik, where Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, will decide upon the further plans for the flight.At 10:35 o'clock the flyers passed Skagafjord, 20 miles west of Horn-afjord, where they were met by Lieut. John Harding Jr., in the "New Orleans," followed a moment later. They circled the harbor for a moment, waved farewell, and then headed along the Iceland
coast toward their destination.
It was the best day since the Raleigh arrived, with the sun shining brightly over the glaciers and no trace of fog. From the North came a light breeze which it was felt might somewhat impede the progress of the planes, but the reports from the destroyers stationed along the route indicated excellent visibility with a generally calm sea.As on the day the planes arrived
the entire population of the little Island gathered today to wave
farewells to the flyers and the only hotel in town was filled to overflowing with farmers from up-country who came to wish the birdmen good luck.Entertained by Merchant.

tertained at the home of T. Danielson, a merchant, who owns most of the village. A number of Icelandic beauties presented them with bouquets of wild flowers as tokens of good luck.The stay of the aviators here
has been most pleasurable and they have found Iceland one of the most picturesque countries they have visited in their long round-the-world flight. Just back of the little village of Hornafjord a small volcano—one of more than 100
live ones in the country—surmounted perpetually by a crown
of whirling smoke.Along the coast line the mountains come almost to the edge of water, but are great sweeps of sandy plains leading to the big glaciers in the valleys.In the dying summer it is a coast of grim grandeur, with a per-high tablelands. Except in the small cultivated areas the only visible vegetation is short green grass

and in some of the valleys a small
species of bush like birch.The conference, he continued,

job, led him yesterday from his

tered by a bomb explosion, to a po-

five of his employees were freed
last night after the expensive process of furnishing bonds which aggregated $18,000.He and each of the employees are charged with violation of the State

are not believed to suffice to cover
the damage to the McAdoo shop,

The number appearing below the

ed matter, identified the McAdoo shop as the source of the campaign
matter, which is chiefly in support of Joseph C. Schroeder, candidate for the Republican nomination for Circuit Attorney in today's primary.Seven bundles of what the police termed "literature," similar to matter which had been circulated personally and by mail, were taken from the McAdoo printing office.
A four-page circular, on which Schroeder's name appears several times in black type, and which has no sponsoring signature of any individual, was the chief item of
"literature."The circular advocated the nomination of Schroeder as one "who will wage relentless war on gangsters," and "who can cope with the most able lawyers the criminal can employ." A cartoon showed a Schroeder broom sweeping out the Circuit Attorney's office, some of the "rubbish" being labeled "Night and Day Bank,"
"Punch," "Pull," and "Gangsters."The figure of Saint Louis was shown as greeting Candidate

you—these elements must stop."

Court Like Clinic During Alienist's Pitiless Dissection of Loeb-Leopold Personalities

Keynote of Defense, Absence Of Normal Motive in Murder, Stressed by the Witness

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The courtroom of the Federal court today was a clinic of the mind. The defense attorneys, in their opening statement, stressed the absence of normal motive in the murder of Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Edward George Bremer.

Loeb, described as overrated mentally, a duel personality, squirmed when secrets were whispered into the record. Leopold, described as a normal man, was the only one who seemed to be in control of his emotions.

TWO QUESTIONS IN MENTAL TEST AND READY ANSWERS MADE BY LOEPOD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Here are two of the questions asked of the defendant in the mental test which he gave today in the Federal court. The first question was: "Do you know what you are doing?" The second question was: "Do you know what you are going to do?"

"WRONG NUMBER" IS CHIEF COMPLAINT IN PHONE MERGER

Telephone Service on First Day After Consolidation Meets With Difficulties

Telephone service yesterday, the first business day after the final merger of the former Kinloch system into the Bell system, was hampered by the thousands of "wrong numbers" calls apparently made by persons who used the old books or trusted to memory. About 10,000 numbers have been changed with the merger and the telephone company advises consulting the new directory for every call, to speed the service.

In the three downtown exchanges, Main, Olive and Central—are 10,000 of the number changes. Yesterday at Main and Olive there were 58 instead of eight intercepting operators on duty to straighten out callers made confused by the change. Intercepting operators will not give new numbers, but will request callers to consult the directory.

being taken by the naval patrol to guard the two remaining United States army airplanes in their short flight, scheduled for today, along the south coast of Iceland, from Hofsloft to Reykjavik.

The U. S. S. Raleigh will remain at Hofsloft, where the "New Orleans" is piloted by Lieut. Leigh Wade and the "Chicago" commanded by Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, Sunday.

The destroyer Billingsley was due early today at a point off Portland and the destroyer Reid is stationed 20 miles east of Reykjavik, while the Richmond is due to arrive at Reykjavik at 2 p. m. The course of this vessel will take her along the coast for several hours, so the flyers will be further guarded if they get an unusually early start.

DESTROYER FLEET WAITS FOR FLYERS

By MALCOLM ROSS,
Staff Correspondent of the New York World.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. LAWRENCE, INDIAN HARBOR, Aug. 4.—With the natives' tales of ice forming around the edges of Indian Harbor on Aug. 5 of last year, and with a procession of icebergs sighted out at sea between the gaps of Collapsible Rock island, the destroyers were waiting here for the world flyers hoping for news of a successful flight around the tip of Greenland.

Lieut. Flayton Bissell, army advance route officer, before leaving on the Milwaukee for Iceland, gave a vivid account of the icebergs in Greenland. He said, "The icebergs are 6000 feet thick. This is the largest I have seen. The icebergs are 6000 feet thick. This is the largest I have seen. The icebergs are 6000 feet thick. This is the largest I have seen."

CHIARI PANAMA'S PRESIDENT

Popular-Liberal Gets Big Majority

PANAMA, Aug. 5.—Rodolfo Chiari, Popular-Liberal candidate, was successful in the recent election, receiving a large majority for President of Panama over Gen. Quintana, hero of the 1898 war. Some of the outlying districts are yet to be heard from, but the electoral officials agree that, even if all these were conceded to Gen. Quintana, he would not be able to affect the big lead for Chiari.

question, but he didn't think they had tried to deceive him. "They'd like to beat this case, wouldn't they?" Crowe asked. "I'm not so sure about that," was the reply.

"Do you think they want to hang?" Crowe asked. "I don't really know," was the reply. "Well, they've lied to everybody in the world; the 'king' lied to the 'king' and both of them lied to the officers of the law. Why do you suppose they wouldn't lie to you to save themselves?" "I don't think they would have lied to me in that way—making themselves out worse," the witness countered.

Crowe continued laboring at his plan to deceive the alienists as to the mental condition in order to present the present defense. He also hinted that they might have been "educated" in the necessities of the case by "some alienist or lawyer." Dr. Healy didn't believe that was the case.

"Convenient Personalities." Further questioning was directed as to which of the defendants' acts could be attributed to their mature intellects and which to their infantile emotions. Dr. Healy said they manifested the intellects of small boys in the realm of practical judgment, when they decided to enter the crime in the first place, although they displayed ripe intellect in planning the details of commission and concealment.

"Stumbles Into Trap." Crowe finally trapped Dr. Healy in the snare which he had kept open for him and for Dr. White for several days, when he induced him to say, by inference, that the defendants were insane, only to discover through Judge Caverly's ruling that all his pains had been in vain.

Crowe asked him if, upon learning that Loeb had blushed, "almost faint," and called for a glass of water, he had concluded that Loeb had been found at the scene of the murder and that the Leopold family chauffeur had discredited part of their story.

Crowe related several other aspects of the precautions and pains taken by Loeb and Leopold, and obtained affirmative replies when he asked if these indicated caution and fear. When, however, he asked if the defendants did not manifest the normal care and caution that would be expected of 18-year-old youths, he replied: "Absolutely not. In fact, it was so unusual in the case of these defendants that I have never known or heard of anything remotely approaching it."

Dr. William O. Krohn, chief alienist for the State, was sitting at the counsel table. He was asked if the defendants were sane, and he replied: "I am not depending upon this witness for my definition. Insanity under the laws of Illinois has been plainly defined by the Supreme Court, and I am following their definition."

Insanity in Illinois. The legal definition of insanity in Illinois is one who cannot distinguish right from wrong, or being able to distinguish, is incapable of exercising a choice.

"Do these defendants know right from wrong?" Crowe came back. "Intellectually they certainly do," Dr. Healy responded.

Are they capable of exercising a choice? Crowe went on. The defense objected, but before the Court could rule, Dr. Healy replied: "I am certain that they are unable to exercise full freedom of choice."

Judge Caverly again intervened, and said: "This is not a sanity hearing," he said.

CHILD ABANDONED ON STREET

Parents of Two-Year-Old Boy Sought by Police

The parents of a 2-year-old boy, who was found at the intersection of 14th and Olive streets, Aug. 5, are being sought by the police and the Board of Child Guardians, which now has custody of him. A negro starling was found on the sidewalk near the intersection of 14th and Olive streets, Aug. 5, and was taken to the Board of Child Guardians, which now has custody of him.

The scientific character of the defense testimony seems to have whetted rather than daunted popular curiosity. The crowds which attempted to get into the building today were the largest of the hearing.

Conclusion of Analysis. Concluding his analysis of Loeb's mentality, Dr. Healy declared that, in his opinion, "the planning and execution of this crime were made possible only because of Loeb's abnormal mentality. He has split personality and an obsessive thought of life. His pathological desire for sympathy is in abnormal contrast to his utter lack of sympathy for others. He has an abnormal lack of remorse and an abnormal absence of fear in his present precarious situation."

He split personality took the form of a fairly normal intelligence over against a greatly twisted emotional life. The homicide was the result of a pathological desire for sympathy, which was in abnormal contrast to his utter lack of sympathy for others. He has an abnormal lack of remorse and an abnormal absence of fear in his present precarious situation.

Offer to Share Findings. Another offer to share findings was made by Dr. Healy. He offered to share his findings with the defense attorneys. Before accepting the offer, he stipulated that he must be permitted, in the interest of society, to make use of the psychological and educational values which he discovered in the case. The families of the boys readily agreed to this, he said.

Insanity in Illinois. The legal definition of insanity in Illinois is one who cannot distinguish right from wrong, or being able to distinguish, is incapable of exercising a choice.

DAVIS AND SMITH IN CONFERENCE ON CAMPAIGN PLANS

New York Governor to Stump for Presidential Nominee in New England and in West.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—John W. Davis and Gov. Smith had lunch together yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel and then for a hour discussed campaign plans and means. Both seemed in high spirits over their meeting—the first since the Democratic national convention.

BOTH SILENT ON HYLAN'S ATTITUDE

Smith Not to Run for Re-election in New York Unless Political Situation Requires.

Neither Gov. Smith nor the Democratic presidential nominee would say very much for publication. They made the usual remark about "absolute harmony," and said they had gone over the situation in detail. Gov. Smith declined to say whether he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

Both withheld comment when they were informed that Mayor Hylan had issued a statement regarding to endorse Davis and outlining a policy of waiting for developments.

The following developments based on reliable information were obtained from the city of New York. Gov. Smith will not run for re-election unless it is absolutely necessary for him to do so.

Smith will make an energetic campaign for Davis. This will be done in New England and in some of the Western states as well as in New York.

No Intention of Running. Although Gov. Smith would not say whether he would run for re-election, impression was given that he has no intention of doing so. This was said to be far more definite and emphatic than the usual statement of a politician who is an officeholder himself in the running again. Friends of the Governor said flatly that only the most unusual situation could force him into the race.

One situation, of course, might cause him to run. That is, if Mayor Hylan is taken seriously as a gubernatorial candidate—so seriously that State leaders concede he has a chance of election. In that case, leaders of Tammany Hall might feel that it would be to the advantage of the party to back the nomination of Hylan.

Whether this situation was the basis of the talk between Davis and Smith is not known. But it is known that the Democratic presidential candidate has no intention of interfering in any local political arena.

Smith's personal follow-up in the nation following re-election, Tammany believes, will be in the hands of the party. Smith will be in the hands of the party.

DAVIS AND SMITH IN CONFERENCE ON CAMPAIGN PLANS

New York Governor to Stump for Presidential Nominee in New England and in West.

BOTH SILENT ON Hylan's ATTITUDE

Smith Not to Run for Re-election in New York Unless Political Situation So Requires.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—John W. Davis and Gov. Smith had lunch together yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel and then for an hour discussed campaign ways and means. Both seemed in high spirits over their meeting—the first since the Democratic national convention.

Neither Gov. Smith nor the Democratic presidential nominee would say very much for publication. They made the usual remarks about "absolute harmony," and said they had gone over the situation in detail. Gov. Smith declined to say whether he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

Both withheld comment when they were informed that Mayor Bryan had issued a statement regarding to endorse Davis and outlining a policy of waiting for developments.

The following developments, based on reliable information, stand out after the conference: Gov. Smith will not run for re-election unless it is absolutely necessary for him to do so.

Smith will make an energetic campaign for Davis. This will include speeches in New England and in some of the Western states, as well as in New York.

No Intention of Running. Although Gov. Smith would not discuss the matter of running for re-election, impression was given that he has no intention of doing so. This was said to be far more definite and emphatic than the usual pre-campaign reluctance of an officeholder himself.

Gov. Smith said flatly that only the most unusual situation could force him into the race.

One situation, of course, might cause him to run. That is, if Mayor Hylan is taken seriously as a gubernatorial candidate—so seriously that State leaders concede he has a chance of election. In that case, leaders of Tammany Hall said, they would demand that Smith spike Hylan's ambitions by taking the nomination himself.

Tammany has no desire to see Hylan and William Randolph Hearst in control of the State machine.

Whether this situation was the basis of the talk between Davis and Smith is not known. Each denied there had been any talk regarding whether Smith is to run.

Smith said the Democratic presidential candidate has no intention of interfering in any local political fracas.

But Smith's personal following in the nation, a following vastly increased, Tammany believes, since the convention, would be appealed to in behalf of Davis. After the luncheon Davis said the New York Governor would be active "on the stump."

"With his hat and coat off," he was asked, "he has not the slightest doubt of it," replied Davis.

Spillacy Calls On Smith. The luncheon conference followed a formal visit to the Hotel Hamilton, where Smith was stopping, by Thomas J. Spillacy, Eastern campaign manager for Davis.

He asked the Governor to meet Davis at luncheon. Smith replied he would be glad to do so.

Spillacy was at the luncheon with Frank L. Polk, former Secretary of State; Norman J. Davis, former Under-Secretary of State and National Democratic Chairman; and several other prominent Democrats.

"The convention will decide," he said, "I would not want to say anything," he added, "because I am the leader of the party in the State."

Davis, talking with reporters after Gov. Smith had left, was equally non-committal. He said Smith would take the stump and that nothing had been said about the State situation. He did not say whether Gov. Smith would speak in Maine.

HEAVY PRIMARY VOTE BEING CAST IN CITY; 140,000 TOTAL FORECAST

Exchange were closed. State courts also were closed for the day. Approximately 7000 city employees are out rounding up votes for the states of their respective ward organizations, although their main job is to help nominate Director of Public Safety James N. McKelvey for Sheriff. McKelvey is slated in 23 of the 25 wards over his opponents, City Marshal Anton Schuler and Deputy Assessor Fred Gehner.

McKelvey's Lines Shortened. McKelvey had claimed 26 of the 28 wards but at the last minute Committee Herman Meuser of the Thirteenth ward, who has a hot fight for re-election to the office, has been added to the list.

Brinkmann in the Fourteenth, Committee Fred C. Delporte of the Fifteenth, Committee William F. Smith of the Twenty-Fourth and Thomas Nester, unopposed candidate for committeeman from the Third Ward, left their ballots open as between Schuler and McKelvey. In the Twenty-Sixth Ward, McKelvey is unopposed.

Although lively interest is being taken in several local fights, all the rest are overshadowed by the fight for the office of Mayor.

Footnotes appeared on the ballot, which is printed in black on white paper, attacking two candidates who are said to have expressed friendship for Catholic churches. It is signed by 10 persons.

Both Klan and Antiklan Ballots. So-called Klan and antiklan ballots in some number have been received also. Two of the Klan ballots, one found in Nodaway County, Northwest Missouri, and another in St. Francois County, Southeast Missouri, were on pink paper and bore the same state of State candidates carried by the Kansas City "pink ballot" described in the Post-Dispatch some time ago, and bore the names of the same committee which signed the Kansas City ballot.

A "Clean Election League of St. Louis," a title closely following that of an organization which has been functioning for two years in St. Louis County, made its appearance here today in a newspaper advertisement, in which the organization declared its purpose to "rid St. Louis of gangsters and crime." This advertisement carried the names of a partial slate of State and local candidates on both tickets.

Two Complaints of Irregularities in 28th Ward. Two instances of irregularities in balloting in the Twenty-eighth Ward were reported to the Board of Election Commissioners this morning. At a polling place at Hodlamont and Barmen avenues it was reported that an election judge was scanning ballots before dropping them in a box, and at another place at a polling place at Hodlamont and Barmen avenues it was reported that an election judge was scanning ballots before dropping them in a box, and at another place at a polling place at Hodlamont and Barmen avenues it was reported that an election judge was scanning ballots before dropping them in a box.

Leading State Contests. Of the races for State office, only two have attracted wide interest here, that for Governor, for which two of the three Republican candidates and three of the five Democrats are St. Louisans, and that for Attorney-General on the Republican ticket. The latter has attracted large interest here because Gus O. Nations, former Federal prohibition officer here, is a candidate for the Republican nomination against Assistant Attorney-General Robert W. Otto. Twenty-five of the 25 members of the Republican City Committee are supporting Otto, while Nat Goldstein of the Nineteenth Ward and Frank M. Slater of the Seventeenth Ward are backing Nations, and John J. Hurley of the Twentieth Ward is said to have left his slate open as between Nations and Otto.

Many Sample Ballots. Probably no primary ever held here has resulted in such a flood of sample ballots, endorsements and attacks by circular as has marked the campaign preceding and the election, today.

The latest thing in that line was reported today by W. H. Hughes of the George H. Moore for Governor organization, who asked the police to arrest boys who have been distributing small white circulars in the Twenty-eighth ward urging "All 100 per cent Americans who stand four-square to scratch George H. Moore, Democratic candidate for Governor. It was surmised that this circular, which was unsigned and bore no printer's label, was prompted by Moore's vigorous opposition to the Ku Klux Klan.

Another ballot distributed at the last minute is the so-called "Anti-Romanist" ticket, which lists all of the Republican candidates for office and designates them as "Romanists," "American" or "Romanist," though one other was marked "pro-Romanist." Those for whom anti-Catholicism were urged to vote had asterisks in front of their names.

Footnotes appeared on the ballot, which is printed in black on white paper, attacking two candidates who are said to have expressed friendship for Catholic churches. It is signed by 10 persons.

Special Deputy Constables were stationed at all of the 111 precinct polling places and Deputy Sheriffs and Deputy Constables were on duty at the City Court house for possible call. Election Commissioners McKelvey and Hiller and Sheriff Williamson were there.

Election officials in four county precincts made the mistake of giving a number of voters the absentee ballot, which lists only candidates for State office, instead of the proper ballot listing both local and State candidates. The errors were reported to the County Board of Election Commissioners during the morning and election officials at Walnut Manor, Wheaton, Melrose and Olive precincts were given a telephone lecture to prevent further mistakes. The absentee ballots were distributed so that voters from other parts of Missouri, who are detained in St. Louis County, could vote for State candidates.

'ORPHAN' FOR 20 YEARS, AGAIN WITH WEALTHY PARENTS

Illness of Young Stenographer Led to Search That Ended in a Family Reunion.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Miss Jeanette Kling, who last saw her parents 21 years ago, when she was an infant, was reunited to them at Genesee, N. Y., yesterday.

Miss Kling, seated in her plainly furnished room at Orange, N. J., just before she departed for her father's beautiful home, near Mount Morris, N. Y., told of her life since she was received at a Rochester orphanage at the age of 2.

Miss Kling remembers a man and a woman kissing her, and she feels they must have been her parents. Her next recollections are of the orphanage. After a few years a New York family, whose name she would not divulge, adopted her. With them she lived until she was 17, when she ran away to Newark to make her own way.

Miss Kling found positions as stenographer and secretary to her liking.

Two years ago, when she was ill, her story was told to the Bureau of Associated Charities of Orange, and the director, Miss Harriet Pearce, began an investigation that a few days ago revealed that Edward M. Kling, a rich man of Genesee, was the father of Jeanette.

From now on the struggling young stenographer will live with her parents.

SALOON KEEPER WHO KILLED MAN IS RELEASED ON BOND

A. G. Green, saloon keeper at 101 North Third street, East St. Louis, was released on $5000 bond last night pending an inquest in the death of James Flannery, 23, who was shot by Green in a fight in the saloon Sunday. The inquest is delayed because of the critical condition of Charles Clevin, 22, who was also shot. Green maintains he fired at the two men to save his life, while they were beating him with a gas pipe after he had accused them of stealing his automobile. He is booked on a manslaughter charge.

There are about 17,000 others qualified to vote who did not register in the first election of candidates under the new Election Board, the only previous election being conducted by it having been the special one on constitutional amendments.

Special Deputy Constables were stationed at all of the 111 precinct polling places and Deputy Sheriffs and Deputy Constables were on duty at the City Court house for possible call. Election Commissioners McKelvey and Hiller and Sheriff Williamson were there.

VICTIM OF LAPSE OF MEMORY FOUND AFTER 4 MONTHS

Philadelphia Woman, Who Disappeared From Train En Route Home, Fails to Recognize Father.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Florine Louise Adams, 21 years old, who disappeared March 22 last while returning from a visit with the family of her uncle John K. Shaw of Baltimore, to her home in Philadelphia, was found here yesterday, apparently suffering from lapse of memory, and taken home by her father, Harry L. Adams, Philadelphia leather merchant.

Adams found his daughter working in the advertising department of the New York American. He had looked for her more than four months. When he claimed her as his missing daughter, she looked at him without a sign of recognition and said she did not know him.

"I am Miss Jane Johnson," she said. Adams' efforts to quicken her memory by recounting incidents of her childhood, the visit to Baltimore last winter and her disappearance were unsuccessful.

"I'm sorry, very sorry, but I don't recall any of that, or you, either," she replied, exclaiming a moment later, "What a funny mistake you have made."

"Miss Jane Johnson" complied with Adams' request that she give up her position, which she obtained early last April, a few days after her disappearance from the Baltimore-Philadelphia train, drew her savings and went to Philadelphia with him.

She said she could remember nothing further back than last March, when she recalls a train porter throwing water on her face to revive her. After that she said there was a lapse of memory until she found herself on a ferry crossing to New York. Adams believes his daughter was stricken after falling against the seat of a Pullman.

PRINTER FOLLOWS CAMPAIGN COPY TO POLICE STATION

First Street. Foster, who is in the employ of the Madison Post, said today that the Law and Order League was the same organization which last November conducted a campaign for the better enforcement of parking regulations downtown. He said the league, as stated on the ballot, was incorporated.

Another sample ballot was headed "Republican Citizens' 100 Per Cent American Ballot," and had two signatures, which investigators had not been able to establish as genuine.

Section 5048 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri makes it unlawful for any person, group or organization to conduct a campaign without the name and address of the person or persons causing such matter to be published and distributed. "In the event," the statute says, "that two or more persons join in Arrests were made by Patrolman Schleifstein, who is assigned to the Circuit Attorney's office. He took the young men, Lester and George Schwab, to a police station, but did not leave any of the "literature" there, holding it "for the Circuit Attorney." The young men gave bond.

12 TYPHOID DEATHS LAID TO SPRING WATER ON MERAMEC

Health Commissioner Starkloff Reiterates Warning to Boil Water for Drinking Purposes.

The death within two days of a young man and a young woman of typhoid contracted from drinking water taken from a spring at Fern Glen, a resort on the Meramec River, has prompted Health Commissioner Starkloff to reiterate his warning that all water used for drinking purposes by St. Louisans on the Meramec must be boiled to protect them from disease.

The total of typhoid fatalities since April 1 now stands at 12 and all of these deaths have been ascribed by the Health Department to well and spring water used at Meramec resorts and cottages.

The most recent death is that of Saturday of Eric C. Altenber, 35 years old, an advertising man of 3203 Russell avenue, who had a week-end refreshment concession at Fern Glen. He and his partner, Edward G. Brungard of 3464 Hawthorne place, were stricken with

KLANSMEN AID IN POPLAR BLUFF RAIDS

One of 39 Persons Arrested in Liquor Cases Is Candidate for Office.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Aug. 4.—This town is quiet today with the departure of nine men who described themselves as Federal prohibition agents and "citizens investigators" from St. Louis who yesterday, with the assistance of 20 Kl Klux Klan members, conducted a series of liquor raids in which 23 persons, including four women, were arrested.

The raiders were headed by G. H. Force, Clarence Hicks and R. E. Palmer of St. Louis, who described themselves as "citizens investigators." The others said they were Federal prohibition agents, working under orders from Washington, with headquarters at St. Louis.

Some of those arrested are active in politics including one candidate for a county judgeship at the primary today. Six were arrested on Federal warrants; the others on city and State warrants, signed principally by Force and Palmer. But one warrant remained to be served today, according to Chief of Police Hendrickson. This was understood to be for a woman who flinched when whiskey was found in her hotel.

Many of the raids yesterday are said to have been based on evidence obtained by Force during visits to Poplar Bluff last March and April. Three years ago, Force was a prohibition agent at St. Louis and at present conducts a private detective agency. He lives at Wellston.

Poplar Bluff authorities, it is said, had no knowledge that the raids were contemplated until the raiders appeared in the city with warrants.

At the Federal prohibition office in St. Louis, the territory of which includes Southeast Missouri, knowledge of the Poplar Bluff raids was denied today.

It is understood that Force has been employed by the Antislavery League of Missouri as a liquor investigator. He has acted as a liquor detective for Prosecuting Attorney Jones of St. Louis County.

Addressing a law-enforcement meeting in the Clayton Courthouse several months ago, Force told of gathering liquor evidence in Southeast Missouri, some of which, he said, was in a suit case in Jones' office. When he returned for the suit case it was gone.

Force was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Tenth District here, four years ago. In his campaign, campaign account he gave his "total cost to get double-crossed" as $234.61, including "a pair of open work shoes for a plump widow—the best I sold about this time the beer—special, 31¢ and two jars of 'Face cream' for 'a fascinating blonde' and 'a charming brunette.'" The women had campaigned for him.

stayed when whisky was found in her hotel.

Many of the raids yesterday are said to have been based on evidence obtained by Ford during visits to Popular Bluff last March and April.
Three years ago, Ford was a prohibition agent at St. Louis and at present conducts a private detective agency. He lives at Wellston.

Popular Bluff authorities, it is said, had no knowledge that the raids were contemplated until the raid appeared in the city with warrants.

At the Federal prohibition office in St. Louis, the territory of which includes Southeast Missouri,
knowledge of the Popular Bluff
raids was denied today.

It is understood that Ford has been employed by the Antislavery League of Missouri as a liquor investigator. He has acted as a law detective for Prosecuting
Attorney Jones of St. Louis County.
Addressing a law-enforcement
meeting in the Clayton Courthouse
several months ago, Ford told of seizing liquor evidence in Southeast Missouri, some of which, he said, was in a suit case in Jones'
car. When he returned for the suit case it was gone.

Ford was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Congress
from the Tenth District here, four years ago. In his campaign expense account he gave his "total net to get double-crossed" as $10,000, including "a pair of open-topped cars for a plump widow" he said about this the better-known "a fascinating blonde"
and "a charming brunette." The widow had campaigned for him.

Easier, happier wash-days
with wonderful La France
no rubbing—no bluing

No more gloomy Mondays! No more red and swollen fingers and aching backs! Thanks to La France, millions of women have learned a new and easy way to wash. Dissolve two tablespoons of this wonderful product with your regular soap, and two complete operations are cut from your washing.

With La France you just soak or boil the clothes, then rinse and wring, and the washing is done. No rubbing and no bluing. La France blues as it cleans. And what a marvelous job of cleaning it does! Your clothes are dazzlingly white and sweet smelling as if they had been aired and sunned for a day.

Use La France with any kind of soap—bar, powder or flakes. And use it in the washing machine. See how much thicker and richer it makes the suds, and how quickly it loosens the dirt. And better still, it's safe. Won't injure the most delicate fabric. Only 10 cents a package. At your grocer's.

For ironing, use Satina. Added to the hot starch, it gives a lovely glossy finish and imparts a delightful fragrance to the clothes. Keeps the iron from sticking. La France Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia.

La France blues as it cleans. Loosens every sticky, greasy particle of soil so it can be easily rinsed away. Use it with any soap of any brand or kind.

Only 35¢ cents each wash-day for this wonderful product that does away with all the drudgery of washing. For better, take up washing machine.

BUYERS ARRIVING FOR FALL SEASON OPENING

More Than 7000 Representatives of Stores Are Expected Within Next Few Weeks.

The fall buying season has begun and within the next three weeks it is estimated between 7000 and 8000 merchants, buyers and store representatives will visit the city to examine stocks and make purchases in the St. Louis market. Officially, in a sense, the season opened yesterday with the first arrivals to the American Retailers' Association convention, an organization of about 3000 merchant members in 41 States, which had its inception in St. Louis last year. Headquarters have been established at the City Club, and a program of entertainment and educational business sessions planned to occupy the attention of the visitors throughout the convention, which will close next Monday night, 200 From Texas.

Among arrivals yesterday was a delegation from Texas, of about 300 merchants, and a delegation from the Carolinas—the latter especially pleasing to convention officials as indicative of St. Louis' advance into what is considered New York trade territory. Most of the early arrivals were reported as visiting the Washington avenue wholesale and jobbing district, immediately after registering at their hotels and before registering at convention headquarters on the first floor of the City Club Building.

The convention will open with a banquet tomorrow evening, for which the twelfth and fifteenth floors have been reserved. United States Senator Caraway of Arkansas will speak on "What Interest Has the Business Man in Politics?" L. G. Boone of Elkton, Ky., president of the association, will preside.

Thursday will be filled with sessions devoted to the educational program. Of special interest will be an address by Fred W. Anderson of Cozad, Neb., on "Building a $300,000 Business in a Town of 1300." Other speakers and their subjects will be Ben Allen of Washington, Ind., "The Retailer—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow;" J. H. Carter, Mound City, Mo., "Developing Loyalty Among Employees;" Ed V. Williams, Springfield, Mo., "Half a Century of Retailing and Still Going;" Dr. Stanley L. Krebs of New York, "Selling More Goods Over the Counter;" R. A. Thompson, Sullivan, Ind., "Developing the Community Idea;" C. E. Williams, St. Louis, "Moving Slow-Selling Merchandise;" and A. J. Kruse, superintendent of St. Louis Retailers' Credit Bureau, "Solving the Retailers' Credit Problems." Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at a luncheon of the board of directors Thursday.

Many Entertaining Features. Among the entertainment features, probably the most interesting to the visitors will be the annual St. Louis fashion pageant at the Municipal Theater, beginning Thursday night, at which they will be guests each evening during their stay. For the banquet tomorrow night there will be entertainment chairman on the first, twelfth and fifteenth floors, and the musical numbers, which will be varied and many, are under the direction of David Russell, manager of the Municipal Opera.

Other speakers at the banquet will be W. T. Findly, secretary of Mayor Kiel, and R. Fullerton Place, vice president of the St. Louis Advertising Club. Michale Levey is chairman of the Convention Arrangements Committee, and Scott R. de Kins is secretary-treasurer of the association.

8 KILLED IN BATTLE WITH BOLSHEVISTS IN POLISH TOWN

Border Raiders Armed With Machine Guns, Repulsed, Leave Wounded Behind.

By the Associated Press. WARSAW, Aug. 5.—A bolshevik band, armed with machine guns and bombs, has raided the Polish town of Stolbary, southwest of Minsk, say dispatches just received. The raiders released the prisoners from the jail and pillaged the post-office and railroad station, smashing the telegraph and telephone instruments so that the news was not transmitted to Warsaw until the affair was over.

The raiders were repulsed from the Tax Collector's office by the employees and police after a fight in which one of the employees and seven of the policemen were killed. Polish cavalry going to their aid were greeted with a burst of machine gun fire and a fight followed. The raiders escaped, leaving a number of wounded, who were made prisoners.

Cavalry forces are hot after the band with some prospects of its capture, according to latest reports. Some of the raiders, it is stated, wore the regulation soviet army uniform, bearing red stars.

The Cabinet has been called in special session to consider the recurring border raids, of which the latest is said to be one of the worst examples.

WOMAN KILLED BY HORSE, KNOWN HERE

Miss Emily M. Keene of Denver Formerly Employed
By St. Louis Store.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DENVER, Colo., Aug. 5.—Miss Emily M. Keene, 47 years old, vice president of the Neusteter company here, a women's apparel store, and former employee of Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co. of St. Louis, was injured fatally when thrown
from a pet riding horse on the outskirts of the city, Sunday, July 27.
Miss Keene was accompanied by a niece, Miss Mary Ann Wood, and a groom, who, however, were riding in advance of her. The manner in which she was thrown was conjectural. The same mount,
"Rex," had unseated her on a number of previous occasions. Miss Keene struck the ground head first and her neck was broken. She died in 20 minutes, before a physician could arrive.

The funeral was held here last Wednesday and the Neusteter store
was closed for the day to honor her memory. Miss Keene had completed recently an expensive stable for her horses at her country place near here.

Miss Keene was born in Chlo,
Tex. She began her business career in St. Louis with Stix, Baer &

Fuller and came to the Neusteter
store here as a buyer 11 years later, in 1910. She was considered one of the most astute business
women in the West and is credited largely with the growth of her store. Her father, three sisters and three brothers survive.

HOLDS MEXICO RESPONSIBLE FOR EVANS MURDER

British Premier Tells Commons Claim for "Suitable Compensation" Will Certainly Be Made.

CONSUL FINDS NO ROBBERY EVIDENCE

Investigation Fails to Bear Out Theory of Mexicans—Obregon Expresses Regret.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The British Ambassador in Washington has been informed by his Government that the Mexican Government should be made to realize its responsibility for the death of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, slain near her ranch Saturday, Prime Minister MacDonald declared in the House of Commons this afternoon. The statement was in answer to Patrick Joseph Henry Hannon, who asked whether further information had been received from the American Embassy in Mexico City. MacDonald outlined the action which the American Embassy had taken, and added that a claim for suitable compensation would certainly be made in time. The Prime Minister said that the British Consul-General at Mexico City had informed him that a British legation officer, sent to the scene to investigate the crime, had reported that the motive was not robbery, but that the Mexican Government was acting energetically and had made a number of arrests. The legation officer said that he was being given all facilities for his inquiry.

Foreign Office Bulletin Credits Robbery Theory.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The belief of the Mexican Government that robbery was the principal motive for the killing of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the British subject who was shot to death from ambush near Temelucan, Saturday night, was reiterated in an official foreign office bulletin relative to the case issued late last evening. Officials had previously expressed their disbelief that the crime was the result of the agrarian agitation which aimed at the seizure of the land. The Foreign Office bulletin echoes the expressions of President Obregon in calling attention to the agrarian question regarding the property of the victim, although the Government is confident that the investigations initiated will demonstrate the present lamentable case is the result of an ordinary crime such as unfortunately are frequently committed in all parts of the world.

Gen. Saenz, minister of foreign relations, added unofficially he had been informed that Mrs. Evans had made all plans for her funeral more than a week previous to her death.

Obregon Deeply Grieved.
"The Mexican Government has well-founded hopes that the assassin of Mrs. Evans will be captured and receive merited punishment," President Obregon told the Associated Press. "It has been a case of deep grief for me, especially since the victim was a woman."

The energy with which the Federal and Puebla State authorities are pushing the inquiry for the purpose of arriving at the truth furnishes proof of our regret over the tragedy. I have received none of the facts concerning Mrs. Evans' death and the robbery beyond those already known to the public."

Advices from Puebla say that more than 10 arrests have been made. Among those taken are said to be several who are charged with having made threats against Mrs. Evans' life.

The body of Mrs. Evans is on its way to Mexico City for burial beside that of Mr. Evans in the British cemetery there.

The soldiers and police will continue their search as the various investigations are carried out.

Americans Heirs to Estate.
With the death of Mrs. Evans, the estate passes to her husband.

WARREN CRITICISES
WILSON'S POLICY"False Starts" Were Made
in Mexico—Coolidge Praises
Retiring Ambassador.WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Coolidge today accepted the resignation of Charles B. Warren
as Ambassador to Mexico.In his letter of resignation,
made public at the White House
with the letter of President Cool-idge's acceptance, Warren criticized the Wilson administration's policy in Mexico and declared that the Coolidge administration would be protected there under the new relations between the two countries.President Coolidge praised Ambassador Warren's part in restoring diplomatic relations with Mexico and declared the envoy "representative of all times the fundamental desire of our country to see such conditions established that we could assist in the development
of their country and the promotion of the welfare of their people.""Your mission to Mexico," the President said, "has been attended with the most gratifying success.
You have solved many of the perplexing questions, and especially those provided for the protection of American life and American property, and the settlement of disputed claims."President Coolidge is expected to name a successor as soon as the necessary exchange of diplomatic credentials in connection with the new mission to Mexico, which will be chosen from outside of the present diplomatic corps.Criticism of Wilson Policy.
Warren in his statement declared that the United States' relations with Mexico had been hurt during the Wilson administration by "two false starts, one at Vera Cruz and the other the Pershing expedition."
He also referred to the policy of
"wait and see" while American property was being destroyed.During the United States has had no policy which conflicts with its aspirations of Mexico, the Ambassador outlined the work of the American commission of which he was a member, which went to Mexico last year to initiate a basis for a resumption of diplomatic relations.The Mexican Constitution of 1917, he continued, presented a difficult problem. It represented a conflict between the owners of private lands and the Government
in connection with oil rights.During the mission, it continued, "adjustments were made so that all owners of land, or leaseholders, prior to the adoption of the Constitution of 1917, could recover their lands, in case the owner had, prior to 1917, performed some act that demonstrated his intent to take out the oil. This year, the basis for negotiations was established, and a commission
representing oil producers will soon meet with President Obregon
and his advisers in Mexico City to work out, along lines already laid down, a plan to develop the oil industry on lands acquired after the Constitution of 1917 became effective."While I was Ambassador to Mexico, notes were exchanged
between the two governments
regarding the status of the oil industry. Some questions of policy remained to be decided by the United States Government but these negotiations shall begin.The relations between Mexico and the United States, inherited from the Democratic administration have been readjusted to the outstanding of both Governments and I feel that the means have been found to protect American property and rights in Mexico, without offending the Mexican people, or interfering in any way in their domestic affairs.I have undertaken three missions since the Republican administration came into power. The first was as Ambassador to Japan.
The second, as head of the commission to negotiate resumption of the diplomatic relations with Mexico,
and the last was as Ambassador to Mexico. I am satisfied that the main problems in the Far East and Mexico have been solved.The situation in Europe with which I am not familiar, is rapidly approaching a greatly improved status under a plan suggested by the present administration. I feel that the Coolidge administration will be credited with putting the international relations of America on a better basis than has been achieved for a long time."Warren did not indicate what he would take in the Coolidge administration, merely saying he was going home to his family and his own affairs because "I think that the things I have undertaken
to help to do have been done."Coolidge Letter.
The letter of President Coolidge
to Warren follows:
"The request which you make in your formal letter, that your resignation be accepted on this date, is granted.""Your mission to Mexico has been attended with the most gratifying success. You have re-established the most cordial relations between our own Government and the Government of that country,
which had been interrupted for a long period of years. You have solved many of the perplexing
questions and especially have provided for the protection of American life and American property."

MacDonald Tells What Socialism Hopes to Do

serious is wrong with our social organization; how to put it right we can learn only by study and experiment. We leaders in the socialist movement are students and experimenters. Scores of government reports on factories and mines, on towns, on housing, on the moral and social conditions of the people, show how great is the rational need for students and experimenters.

"Revolution Is Disaster and Nothing More."

"Revolution in Russia taught us a great lesson. It taught us that revolution is destruction and disaster and nothing more. If I may quote from one of my recent articles, the destruction of the old order is the sort of destruction which takes place when a caterpillar becomes a chrysalis, and the chrysalis a butterfly; the same kind of destruction as went on inside the chrysalis when the industrial revolution was being matured; the destruction which marked factory legislation, unemployment legislation, the invasion of municipal enterprise on the field of private enterprise. Our 'destruction' is merely that of replacing the worse with the better, and doing so scientifically and stage by stage.

"Do you still hold, as you did in 1912, that nationalization of lands, mines, and railways is the best means of curing social unrest in England?"

"That is the next stage in evolution."

"Can nationalization be attained here without awaiting similar movements in the dominions and in other countries?"

"Yes. We must press on here—surely, as I have said, but unhesitatingly. But by bit we must unfold our policy, and get for it the support of the electors, for we are working under a system of representative democracy.

"Our constructive scheme touches all the social interests of the population—unemployment, education, housing, agriculture, management of industry, banking and credit, taxation, international affairs, and municipal policy. Some of them may baffle us at first. We must try again. With all of them we shall deal as expeditiously as we can. Nationalization will not be carried through with a sweep, as in Russia. That would be an antic, and we have no faith in antic.

"Some industries, like those of the coal mines and the railways, are now ripe for nationalization. Land—the use to which it is put and the rents derived from it, especially the new increments of socially-created land values—is a matter of immediate state concern. Money's power over business and politics calls for prompt action by the community, employers as well as workmen. Such experiments as that of the Birmingham Municipal Bank should be attended, with a state bank in supreme control. I am speaking of aims; methods would be determined by planning and careful experimentation.

Champions of Consolidation and Defense of Empire.

"You socialists are anti-protectionist."

"Decidedly. So are the British electors, as has been shown by every election since Joseph Chamberlain launched his tariff reform campaign more than 20 years ago."

"One hears some talk of uneasiness in the dominions respecting your attitude toward the principle of imperial solidarity."

"Such talk turns upon the policy of the socialist government with reference to inter-empire preference and the Singapore dockyard. In neither case is there the slightest justification for the talk. We socialists yield to none as believers in the British commonwealth of nations, and as champions of its consolidation and defense. We cannot allow the democratic gains of the past to be attacked by any form of barbarism without putting up a defense.

"When the government of which I am the head decided against imperial preference, it was thinking of the solidarity of the British commonwealth, and endeavoring to strengthen the foundations of that solidarity. We do not believe that any protectionist mechanism whatever will tend to bind the commonwealth more firmly together. Any such mechanism would be constructive at one point or another, and, as we British certainly ought to know, empires are not held together by construction. Protectionist schemes are parasitic schemes—schemes to give some one artificial benefits at the expense of some one else. We are against them. We are convinced that the influence states be, not to integrate, but to disintegrate our commonwealth of nations."

please bear in mind that we already have a great dockyard at Singapore, and the question at issue was one, not of building, but of extension—was not at all, in our judgment, a decision out of accord with the interests of imperial unity.

"Let me explain it. In the first place, I should say our decision was not influenced in the least by the Washington naval agreement. That agreement left us quite free to extend Singapore. What we did was based on other grounds. Singapore undoubtedly is a strategic position of immense importance in the Pacific. If we were contemplating war we should develop it for naval operations of the first magnitude. But we are not contemplating war, and we will not contemplate war unless driven to it by external forces over which we have no control.

"We are contemplating peace, and we give our great world neighbors credit for a similar disposition. Naturally, therefore, in all we do we wish to furnish every prudent evidence of our pacific desires and intentions. We feel we can furnish such evidence, such prudent evidence, in connection with Singapore. We feel so after a very thorough exploration of the whole question. International confidence and co-operation, reduced armaments, and a stable reign of reason in the world—the core of British foreign policy—would not have been set back, if our acts at Singapore had reflected an expectation of war rather than a hope of peace.

"Is Not Neighborliness Worth Some Risk?"

"Are we making a bold move? Some think so. But is not world neighborliness worth some risk? Is all our heroism to be reserved for the cause of peace? Besides, the risk is not so terrifying as certain of our critics suggest. We have, at any rate, a short time—a limited number of years—during which we can be sure no war will overtake us. I am persuaded that when we use a year or two of this time in endeavoring to establish, or to pave the way for establishing, the ascendancy of morals over militarism in this world."

"You are an actualist."

"Yes. I believe in dealing with situations as they are today, rather than in elaborating abstractions upon hypothetical conditions that may or may not arise a generation or two hence—especially when these elaborations involve heavy expenditures of money, and retard the movement for disarmament."

"You deem the present moment the right moment to strike hard for peace?"

"Pre-eminently. Immediately after a great war, when peoples are full of loathing for war, when they passionately yearn for peace, when they are exhausted, when they are wise—then is the time to get on with your peace work. Memories of war, like many other memories, fade soon. New blood arrives on the scene. Old suspicions and fears revive, and almost before you even dimly realize its approach, a fresh horror of bloodshed and destruction is upon you."

"You are a nationalist."

"Heart and soul. There is something very tender and beautiful in the love of one's country. But a man who believes his wife is the best in his street does not make that a reason for fighting duels with his neighbors. I do not believe in running nationalism too hard. I do not believe in running it to the danger of the general interests of mankind. There is no reason for doing anything of that sort. Nationality, fully developed and justly guided, is nothing but a blessing to humanity."

"You have unfaltering faith that Anglo-French friendship will last?"

"If I had not, I should despair of the salvation of European civilization."

"Are Anglo-American relations entirely satisfactory?"

"Entirely. And nothing will be left undone by our Government to keep them so."

League Main Instrument to Better Conditions.

"You intend to back up the League of Nations with all your personal and official strength?"

"I do. I hope personally to attend the opening of the assembly of the league at Geneva in September, and there will be other British representatives. It is the intention of the French Prime Minister also to attend, and I hope there will be many other first-rank statesmen in attendance. It is the purpose of my Government to use the league as the main instrument for bringing about those international conditions which are necessary to tranquility, and to all the great human interests that hinge upon tranquility."

"What is your idea of the duty of powerful nations relative to the league?"

"I think it is their duty to help it. I want to see the great peace union complete. It is humanity's concern, and no great nation is likely to hold itself morally irresponsible in a matter of concern to humanity. I do not mean that any nation should lose its freedom over the league; I mean rather that all nations should exercise their freedom on behalf of the league. Britain did not lose her freedom when she identified her prestige and energy with the league. No member state did. Every nation should help, but help in its own way. It is essential to national independence, to popular control over policy, that nations do everything they do in their own way. But doing things in one's own way is a very different matter from not doing them at all.

"I think America should help the league, and I think she will, in her own time and way. It is not for us to hurry or admonish her. Her intelligence and moral force are needed in the world. They would be powerful factors for good. Already, though not fully and officially, the republic is watching, helping, co-operating in Europe. I thank her. We do not want her to entangle herself, and so to diminish her usefulness to civilization. But we do want to see her great strength and authority systematically and steadily applied to the solution of the problems with which are bound up the prosperity, happiness and peace of the world. How to do that she knows far better than any outsider can tell her."

News of the wounding of the Rev. George R. Snyder, a native of Harrington, and Prof. Karl H. Beck in China, has been received here by friends of the minister, who is a missionary there.

The opposing armies, with Gen. Li Chang and Tien in command, were exchanging shots in the streets of a city.

The Magistrate asked the foreigners for aid to stop the shooting. The Rev. Mr. Snyder and Prof. Beck volunteered. Accompanied by the Chief of Police, they were making arrangements to restore peace when they were shot. One bullet wounded both Americans, according to the information received here.

LABOR'S DECISION ON LA FOLLETTE ALARMS G. O. P.

Atlantic City Indorsement
Clears Way for La Follette to Consolidate Support in Northwest.

MAY CUT INTO DAVIS
VOTE IN THE EAST

Minnesota Democrats Said
to Suggest Throwing of Their Support to Third
Ticket to Block Coolidge.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
30-23 Wyant Building.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Indorsement of the candidacy of La Follette and Wheeler by the American Federation of Labor has thrown a genuine scare into the ranks of the Coolidge leadership. This, coupled with uncertainty as to the manner in which the Coolidge and Dawes campaign is to be lined up with the Republican congressional campaign, especially in the Northwest, has caused Republican leaders to acknowledge that the La Follette candidacy has become a genuine menace. The backing of the American Federation of Labor had been expected by the La Follette people, but now that it is an accomplished fact they are prepared to put on full steam ahead in their effort to line up the entire Republican Northwest with their combination of Labor, Progressives and farmers.

It is not claimed that the Federation support will deliver the labor vote solidly, but it makes it possible for the La Follette leaders to go ahead with their annealing process as between farmer and labor strength which, they believe, will prove irresistible in such states as Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas.

The dissonant note in the Atlantic City indorsement, heard by the La Follette leaders, lies in inability of the organized labor group to harmonize its position on foreign policy with that of La Follette. This dissonance is likely to become more apparent in the East, especially when the La Follette leaders attempt to break into the Democratic strength there.

Worker-Farmer Combination.
In the Northwest, however, is not expected to make any material difference. The important thing in that section, as both La Follette leaders and labor chiefs see it, is to bring about a combination of farmers and workers.

This has not always been successful in the past. However, the Atlantic City action, La Follette supporters claim, has shown the farmer that organized labor is willing to get behind a candidate of the farmer's choice. Its effect, it is believed, will be to line up the railroad workers and the employed classes in the larger cities, thereby offsetting the influence of business in that section, which is mainly Republican.

In the East, while the Federation indorsement is expected to cut into the strength of Davis to some extent, its effect will be lessened by the liberal position Davis has taken and which he is expected to emphasize in his speech of acceptance.

In the Western States, the Federation action is likely to affect the candidacy of Davis for the vice presidency and in this way benefit both La Follette and Davis. The "Minute Men" organization of Gen. Dawes, interpreted by organized labor as a movement directed against it, is a cause for grave concern to the Republicans.

G. O. P. Conservatism Emphasized.
In the Democratic ticket, it is pointed out, are Davis, with a liberal record and one friendly to labor, and Gov. Bryan, a Western progressive. In these circumstances, Democratic leaders here believe, in states like Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas, indorsement of La Follette and Wheeler by the Federation will have the effect of emphasizing the conservative character of the Republican ticket and leaving a choice to liberals and to friends of labor generally between Davis and Bryan who have a chance of election and La Follette and Wheeler on the other.

In Minnesota it is reported that Democratic leaders are suggesting the advisability of "throwing" to La Follette as the most effective means of stopping Coolidge. La Follette leaders here deny there is any agreement along this line, but express the belief that it is likely to occur in all states where the fight may develop as one between Coolidge and La Follette.

The states likely to develop such a situation, they say, are Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and possibly California.

pressing confidence of victory, which Samuel Gompers in a statement declared "to be no fantastic thing to look for." Senator La Follette telegraphed the executive council of the American Federation of Labor yesterday, thanking it for "indorsing the independent candidacy of Senator Wheeler and myself."

"To break the combined power of selfish interests upon Government is the paramount issue of this campaign," he wired, adding, "and with the support of organized labor, the farmers, business men, professional men and all other men and women whose sole interest in Government is that of good citizenship, I feel confident we shall win."

La Follette's telegram came after the council had discussed with James O'Connell of the Non-Partisan Political Committee of the

At city hospital she was found to be suffering from fracture of the skull, lacerations of the scalp and bruises. LABOR DECISION
ON LA FOLLETTE
ALARMS G. O. P.

Federation plans for handling this in the campaign. These plans include a call on organized labor to stand by the declaration of Sunday and complete state and lesser organizations, and provide for a call for voluntary subscriptions to meet the expense of presenting to the country the record on labor Congress. The funds will be spent by Federation officials or their appointees.

The plan will also call for close co-operation with the committee handling the La Follette campaign. A statement by Gompers indicated that while the Conference for Progressive Political Action, of which William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, is head, will be permitted to pull an out, it will not be allowed to steer the boat.

A telegram and letter of ex-Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, addressed to Gompers, asking that the council delay action until after the Democratic nominee had delivered his speech of acceptance were read to the council, but were not given out for publication.

Senator La Follette's telegram said in part: "In taking this step the federation has adhered to its traditional nonpartisan policy. The importance of the support by the American Federation of Labor for the Progressive ticket cannot be overestimated."

"Your Executive Committee, in stating the American Federation's political policy says: 'Organized labor owes allegiance to no political party or group. It is not partisan to any political party or group. It is partisan to principles, the principles of freedom, justice and democracy.'"

"It seems to me that in this brief paragraph you have set forth a creed of citizenship which, if acted upon by the great body of common citizens would make the Government what it was intended to be, the people's own instrument of service."

Gompers in a statement said that, "having approved the candidacy of La Follette and Wheeler, the federation will throw all of its resources behind them." He said in endorsing the two, "the federation had in no way departed from its long-established policy of nonpartisan action."

"We are going to do our best to elect La Follette and Wheeler. We believe the conscience of America is aroused to the need of a new deal

DISORDER MARKS LAW-AND-ORDER SESSION IN COUNTY

Critics Heckle Mayor Jensen for Henke Case Work
but His Explanation Brings Applause.

A law-and-order meeting, at which there was little discussion of law, but considerable disorder, was held in Richmond Heights last night by critics of Mayor James M. Jensen, who sought to heckle the Mayor and his City Marshal John M. Maloney, for the manner in which they handled the Henke murder investigation.

But when order had been restored at the earnest request of Father McMahon, pastor of St. Luke's Catholic Church, who reminded the chairman, W. J. Thompson, that proper respect was not being shown the Mayor, Mayor Jensen gave an account of the investigation that appeared highly satisfactory to the citizens and prolonged applause greeted his remarks.

Adam Henry Jones, Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County, who was invited as the principal speaker and who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination to succeed him, was accused by Mayor Jensen of inspiring the meeting for political advancement at the polls today, and the two engaged in several verbal tilts.

Jones Makes Complaint.

Prosecuting Attorney Jones, at one time remarked that there was little co-operation with his office by officials of some of the incorporated towns in the county, and he cited the Henke murder case as an example, explaining that he had not been promptly informed of that crime, and that the body, had been embalmed before he reached the scene.

Jones added that he did not believe the Richmond Heights authorities had exercised due diligence in notifying him and Sheriff Willman of the crime.

Replying to Jones, George H. Skillman, Deputy Constable; Frederick D. Stillman, Deputy Marshal, and Mayor Jensen related that the Sheriff had been promptly notified, and Mayor Jensen adding that Jones could not be located.

Hard to Get Attention.

"And that is not the first time we failed to locate you, Mr. Jones," said the Mayor. "I have called you repeatedly on important matters and you are nearly always out. Only the other day I found you so engrossed in conversation with politicians and newspaper men that it required an hour to get your attention on this murder case."

Jones did not reply to this. Albert Horn interrupted Mayor Jensen to remark that it was becoming unsafe to walk the streets of Richmond Heights, and his tone evidently irritated T. J. Hart, Deputy Marshal and Night Fire Chief, who lunged forward and shouted at Horn, "Sit down," in a tone so menacing that Horn sat down with more than ordinary force. Then someone shouted the old battle cry, in our nation and a new morality in public life generally."

Extra Group of Electors in South Dakota Withdrawn.

By the Associated Press. —The prospect of division among La Follette supporters in South Dakota was eliminated today when R. O. Richards, of Huron, La Follette leader, announced the withdrawal of all but one group of presidential electors pledged to La Follette. There had been two groups of electors.

La Follette's Telegram.

Senator La Follette's telegram said in part: "In taking this step the federation has adhered to its traditional nonpartisan policy. The importance of the support by the American Federation of Labor for the Progressive ticket cannot be overestimated."

"Your Executive Committee, in stating the American Federation's political policy says: 'Organized labor owes allegiance to no political party or group. It is not partisan to any political party or group. It is partisan to principles, the principles of freedom, justice and democracy.'"

REFORM URGED IN JAPAN

Premier Says Without This Nation Must Fall Behind.

By the Associated Press. —TOKYO, Aug. 5.—Japan is confronted with the necessity of deciding whether she is to rise or fall in the world-wide economic rivalry, Viscount Taka-Akin Kato, the Premier, told a conference of prefectural Governors.

"If the empire is not to fall behind other Powers it must adopt thorough-going economic and social reforms, lightening the nation's belt, abolishing luxury and practicing thrift and industry in private and public affairs," said the Premier.

Joseph M. Ward, Editor, Dies.

By the Associated Press. —DENVER, Aug. 5.—Joseph M. Ward, newspaper man and author, died here today as a result of an attack of apoplexy.

Ward, although a resident of Colorado for a number of years, had a wide-spread reputation as a newspaperman throughout the United States. At various times he had served as managing and city editor of the Denver Post, managing editor of the Kansas City Post and managing editor of the Denver Republican, now extinct. Ward came to Denver more than 20 years ago from San Francisco.

"Let's go," but Father McMahon arose to the occasion, inquiring if he was attending the trial of Harry A. Henke or what. His good-humored remarks soon restored order, after which the affair became a community love feast and everyone told everyone else he was only joking.

Volunteer Police Force.

The other speakers were Fred D. de Bolt, who believed something ought to be done to stop this crime wave, which City Marshal Maloney, Deputy Marshal Fred Runge and Joseph Forshaw, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, characterized as not being so acute as to cause undue alarm.

The discussion brought out the fact that Richmond Heights has a police force of 32 men, all volunteers, who do patrol duty day and night without remuneration, but Mayor Jensen explained that the City Council had authorized the employment of two salaried patrolmen, which ought to improve the situation.

About 100 men and women attended the meeting, which was held in Clayton Schoolhouse No. 2.

Barrett Gives Opinion on Admitting Henke to Bond.

Attorney-General Barrett today gave an opinion on the question of admitting Harry A. Henke Jr. of Richmond Heights to bond. Henke is now held in jail at Clayton.

charged with the murder of his wife, Marie Henke. His preliminary hearing is set for one week today, before Justice Stacey, and Circuit Judge Wurdeman refused yesterday to order Henke's release on bond, pending that hearing.

Mayor Jensen of Richmond Heights and Sheriff Willman, in asking the Attorney-General for an opinion, said they understood that Henke planned, if released, to go to Southern California with his father, and that he would there be near the Mexican border, which might tend to make his return difficult. Barrett said that, if the circumstantial evidence in the case was "reasonable," the prisoner should be held without bond, and that if the prosecuting attorney of St. Louis County and the Circuit Judge having jurisdiction were in accord in the matter, it would be proper for the prosecuting attorney to make such a recommendation to the court.

PUBLISHER SAYS HE ADVISED FALLON TO PLEAD GUILTY

Denies He Urged Him to Confess
in Order to Give Evidence Against Tammany Leader.

By the Associated Press. —NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Victor Watson, assistant publisher of the New York American called by the defense in the trial of William J. Fallon on a charge of jury bribery, admitted under cross examination yesterday that he had conferred with Fallon recently and tried to persuade him to plead guilty, move for his own temporary disbarment pending inquiry, and throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Fallon had attempted to show that Watson had asked him to confess in order to give damaging evidence against Thomas J. Tammany, Tammany chieftain and former Sheriff; Charles A. Stoneham, partner owner of the Glantz and Arnold Rothstein.

Watson denied this, saying that the reason he had given Fallon an interview in his apartment was that he and others would be willing to give a helping hand to any one who showed a desire to reform.

Harry M. Friend, a reporter for the New York World, called by Fallon, testified that he followed an anonymous tip and went to Fallon's apartment where he interviewed Ernest Edlitz, a former investigator for Fallon, who had queried as to the value of an article from him. At that time Edlitz was there following up on an exposé in the Fuller-McGee brokerage bankruptcy trial in which the first evidence of the jury bribing was brought out, and Edlitz told him he had received $5000 on a promise of $20,000 from the New York American.

Friend said Edlitz also wanted $1000 for a good at J. "afterward cutting the price in half." The witness stated that finally Edlitz gave him a story for which the World later paid $50.

"Edlitz said he felt he had done Fallon an injustice," said Friend, "and he felt that if the papers published the real story it would help Fallon."

Edlitz, in the present trial, turned State's evidence.

NICHOLAS M. BELL VOTES
TODAY FOR SIXTIETH YEAR

"I Never Scratched a Democratic Ticket and I Never Will," Veteran St. Louisian Says.

Nicholas M. Bell, of 1445 West Pine boulevard, veteran St. Louis Democrat, who cast his first vote for McClellan for President in 1864, voted at today's primary and thus rounded out 60 years of suffrage. "And I never scratched a Democratic ticket yet and I never will," asserted the 82-year-old voter, as he described his visit to the polls today. "They handed me a Democratic ballot without asking," continued Bell, "and I voted for my friends, Nelson for Governor, and Andy Moroney for Circuit Attorney."

Bell and his long-stemmed cob pipe created considerable talk at the recent Democratic national convention in New York. Though not a delegate, Bell was back on the ground where 56 years ago, as a delegate from Oregon, he nominated Horatio Seymour for President.

A warrant charging abandonment of birds and impounding of birds without food and water, both misdemeanors, will be sought.

REFUSES TO APPOINT RECEIVER FOR MILLIONAIRE'S CLUB
Judge Denies Plea of Founder Who Says He Was Frozen Out—Munsey and Doherty Among Directors.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Supreme Court Justice McGoldrick today denied an application for appointment of a receiver for the Rockwood Hall Country Club near Tarrytown.

Harold Bolter, who said he originated the plan for the club, had charged that the Tarrytown Realty Syndicate, which he organized, had been deprived of its interest in the club after 14 members of the syndicate had subscribed $35,000 in return for which they were to receive a profit of $50,000 and life membership in the club.

The president of the club is Frank H. Hitchcock, former Postmaster-General. Among its directors, against whom Bolter made no accusations, are A. J. Drexell Biddle, Frank A. Munsey, Bainbridge Colby, Robert W. Chambers, Edward L. Doherty, T. Coleman Du Pont, Charles Dana Gibson and Darwin P. Kingsley.

Bolter said he had a contract to buy 400 acres of the William Rockefeller estate, including Rockwood Hall, which had been Rockefeller's home, and the grounds immediately surrounding it for $1,250,000. After he had formed a syndicate to carry out this project, Bolter said Hitchcock opened negotiations with the Rockefeller executors for the purchase of the grounds for $950,000.

Hitchcock replied that Bolter had defaulted in his contract with the executors when he (Hitchcock) intervened to save the club project, a course that he said Bolter approved.

CLANSMEN HONOR JEW ON 50TH YEAR OF BUSINESS IN TOWN
Join 15,000 Other Persons at Fairfield, Ill. In Celebration—Present Roses to Merchant.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FAIRFIELD, Ill., Aug. 5.—Thirty hooded and gowned Ku Klux Klansmen joined with several thousand other residents of Fairfield and Wayne County yesterday in celebrating as the guests of Emanuel Steiner, clothing merchant, the fiftieth anniversary of his start in business.

After the reception at Steiner's store, at which souvenirs were distributed, there was a parade in which Steiner rode on a decorated truck, surrounded by his grandchildren, and a welcoming address at the City Park by Thomas Creighton, after which Steiner was escorted to an open space, where the klansmen, in full regalia, were grouped. The Rev. Herbert G. Markley, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and secretary of the local clan, removed his mask and presented Steiner with 50 roses and the klansmen saluted him "as citizen, patriot and honest business man." Prayer was then offered and the klansmen filed past Steiner and shook hands with him.

Then there was a free barbecue for the crowd and speeches and athletic contests, and at night a band concert and dance on Main street, in front of the courthouse.

POSTAL CLERK SAID TO ADMIT THEFT OF CASH FROM MAIL
Inspectors Arrest Young Man After Watch Is Maintained on Lock Box.

Complaints of failure to receive mail addressed to the Jersey Cream Coffee Co., a mail order concern specializing in dollar orders, caused Postoffice Inspectors to institute a secret watch over the lock box maintained by the company at the Eighteenth Street Postoffice.

This surveillance, which was maintained Sunday and last night, led to the arrest today of George J. Sullivan Jr., 22 years old, a postal clerk employed there, living with his wife and infant child at 2084 Russell avenue.

Sullivan, Postal Inspectors said today, admitted possession of 69 letters, each containing one dollar or its equivalent, which he had taken from the box during the two nights he was watched. Questioned further, he related that for the last nine months he had taken mail from the box, and had obtained an amount between $500 and $1000.

Sullivan, whose salary is $1700 a year, said he had purchased a Ford automobile on time payments and was pressed to meet bills.

STOCKS OFF AS PROFITS ARE TAKEN

Exchange Market Strong, With Sterling at New High for Year—Several Liberties at New Top Prices.

By Bureau of the New York Times and the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The Exchange market in its copyrighted financial review says:

"Stocks gave more signs of fatigue today than at any time since the present upward movement began. The turnover again exceeded a million shares and call money continued to be plentiful at 2 percent. However, the opinion prevailed in the financial district that the market was ripe for a reaction and profit-taking sales were more numerous than in recent sessions. To this was added considerable selling here and there in an effort to try out the temper of the market. At no time during the day did it seem that the list as a whole was higher than the previous day. Nevertheless, strong spots were numerous and at the close, although losses predominated, a large number of issues showed gains. As was natural, the stocks which have had the most pronounced advance recently, receded farthest. Bonds were not so good as usual, with speculative descriptions showing irregularity. At the same time, well-regarded securities were firm and several of the specialties established new high prices. News affecting the stock market was mixed, while domestic developments indicated a reduction in crude oil prices.

Exchange Rates Rise.

"As the London conference negotiations progress the advance in the foreign exchanges, particularly in franc and sterling, appears to be gathering momentum. Surface indications, at least, suggest that all difficulties will be overcome, and as the chances for a settlement of the crisis grow brighter the speculative interest becomes better, with the possibility that the advance may be overdone. Inquiries for allied currencies was vigorous and the result, although inadequate, rather out of proportion to the amount of actual business transacted. Sterling moved up 1/4 cent to 34.65, another new high for the year, while French franc advanced 1/4 point to 15.4 cents, and the franc rose 2 1/2 points to 13 1/2 cents, crossing the five-cent mark for the first time in a long while. Italian lire were strong but rose only 2 1/2 points to 4 1/2 cents. Swiss francs at 18 1/2 cents rose 1/2 point to 19 cents, while Dutch guilders gained 1/2 point to 16 1/2 cents. Other European exchanges were firm.

"Publication this afternoon of the June statistics on gasoline were regarded as more encouraging. Production amounted to 72,000,000 gallons as against 72,772,000 gallons in May, while consumption rose from 618,000,000 gallons to 686,674,000 gallons. Stocks at the end of June amounted to 1,688,000,000 gallons, a decrease of approximately 50,000,000 gallons. However, the gain in consumption and decrease in output and stocks in June is a seasonal affair and the changes were not particularly pronounced. Stocks, furthermore, on June 30 were some 25,000,000 gallons higher than on the same date a year ago.

"A truck out of 10 to 25 cents a barrel in the price of Pennsylvania graded crude oil calls attention here to unsatisfactory conditions prevailing in the oil industry. Now are at the very peak of the season of highest consumption and despite the sanguine hopes of the oil optimists earlier in the year, the industry has not yet turned the corner. Consequently, it is true, has held consistently above that of last year, which means a new high record. However, starting the year under the handicap of record cost of crude and refined products, the petroleum industry has kept right on producing at a higher rate, hoping that somehow everything would come all right. Certain leaders in the industry who heretofore have denied that too much oil was being produced have admitted, after over-production. If admissions mean realizations, it is feared that this change of opinion will be rather tardily. Sooner or later, of course, a better balance between demand and surplus will be established, but in the meanwhile we may have another few weeks of rising prices.

Index Number Up.

"How the rise in prices of farm products has affected wholesale commodity prices is brought out by Dun's index. This index for prices as of August, published today, shows a gain for all groups amounting to 1.4 per cent, which compares with an increase of 3 per cent in the preceding month. Breadstuffs, reflecting the rise in wheat, account for a larger portion of the gain than any other group, the increase being 14 points. Meat is next with seven points, the advance in corn being chiefly responsible, while other foodstuffs advanced four points. Clothing also advanced, but not so high as foodstuffs and miscellaneous commodities declined, while the metals group was unchanged. Commodity prices as a whole are now higher than at any time since March and breadstuffs are at their highest level since November, 1923.

SEIZED LIQUOR RETURNED; DRY AGENT FIRED

He Is Accused of Misrepresenting Facts in Getting Warrant for Raid on Private Home.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Prohibition agents took back yesterday to the home of Hugo Gilbert de Fritsch, 142 East Fifty-fourth street, the stock of pre-prohibition liquor seized there last Friday. A few hours later it was announced at Washington that Robert J. Owens, the agent on whose affidavit the search warrant was based, had been dismissed from the service. The action against Owens was based on the ground that he had misrepresented the facts when he procured a warrant to search the residence of De Fritsch, whose wife is a niece by marriage of Chief Justice Taft. It is understood his discharge has been approved all along the line to the acting Secretary of the Treasury. A charge of perjury may be made against the agent. It was announced at Washington that United States Attorney Hayward had the facts in the case and action rested with him.

Agents Voght and Galloway, who played minor roles under Owens in Friday's raid, accompanied a big van back to the house and solemnly returned the confiscated stuff. It had been seized, they explained, last week, from what they mistook for "a swell sneak easy."

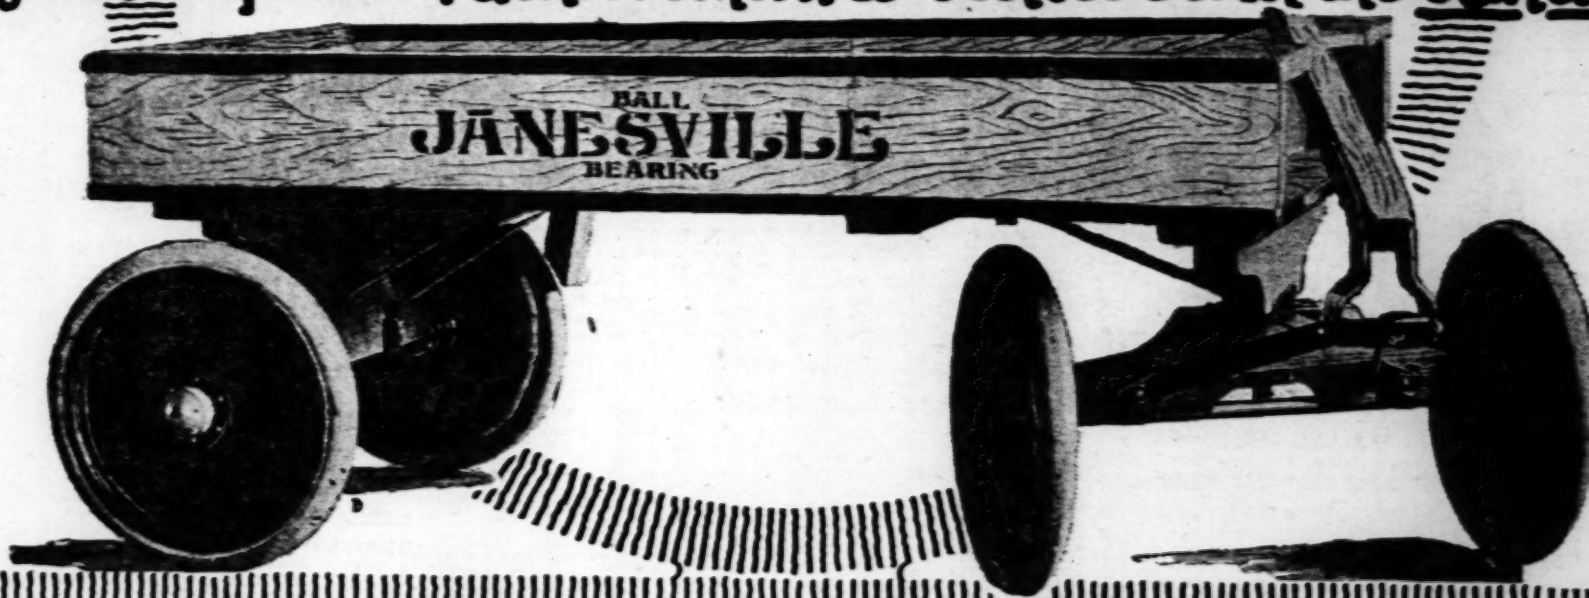

The decision to return the liquor came, Merrick said, after a conference between himself and Hayward. He said investigation had shown the liquor to be exactly as De Fritsch represented—prohibition in the strictest sense of the word.

Examination of the 80 filled and "partly filled" cases gave evidence that they dated from the day before bootlegging became an industry.

Boys Burned in Explosion. Walter and Joseph Lembeck, 7 and 6 years old, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Lembeck, 2348 South Grand boulevard, were burned on the face and hands yesterday by an explosive of some sort found in the rear of their home. Police reported Walter struck the explosive with a stick, causing both to be burned.

Dr. Ruth S. G. Ho, a Chinese girl, is connected with the Boston Floating Hospital, where she has displayed unusual skill in children's diseases.

If an Eskimo wife has no children it is generally her wish that her husband marry another woman so that the home may be blessed with the joy of children.

HIKING With CUPID

By BETTY VINCENT.

LOVE may be blind, but the girl who goes hiking with her sweetheart and does not carefully consider her hiking make-up is taking the chance of her sweet young life. Hiking has become a very popular sport with the young set. Saturdays and Sundays you will see scores of pretty girls in knickers, rough sport skirts and all sorts of "freak make-ups" on the road.

But the girl who relies on a pretty face and does not take hiking make-up when her sweetheart is going along is most unwise. Knickers, if they are of tweed, corduroy or khaki and fit well, are very becoming to the average girl, but knickers, if they belong to some kid brother, to father's cast-off golf wardrobe or are a pair of sailor's trousers (as I have seen many silly flapper donning of late), are far from picturesque, to say the least.

The same might be said of the blouse which is worn with the knickers. A white middie, a khaki blouse or a strictly tailored waist looks well with knickers, but when a girl dons her brother's blouse or a man's shirt, tucking it in loosely at the throat, the lines of her figure certainly are not the best. Add a little dirt spot on either side of her face, have her bobbed hair ruffled by the winds and her face decidedly sunburned or freckled, and the picture is not exactly of the type you would expect even a blind Cupid to rave over.

Of course it is true the girl hiker is just out for fun, and also true that the boy hiker frequently dons as freaky a make-up and looks just as tired and dirty and sunburned, and yet—remember there are pictures which imprint themselves so deeply on the memory that mere man never forgets them.

Let a girl wear a dainty organdie and a summery hat the next evening when Jack comes to take her to the beach, and he is just deep enough to recall that picture of you in your funny hiking costume, much the same way a newlywed husband will often remember his wife, who wears a discolored old boudoir cap and runner slippers at the breakfast table. She may be as dainty as a fashion model in the evening, but that morning picture is also among his brain pictures.

Hiking costumes may be made very attractive and just as comfortable as if the girl picked up

Love May Be Blind, but Girl on Hike With Sweetheart Should Take Care to Keep Herself Looking Trim.

castoff masculine wardrobe and trusted to her bobbed hair and powder puff to put on the "finishing touches." Summer is the time to like, to have beans and plan for that engagement party next spring. Therefore, girls, don't don just any old pair of knickers or breeches available.

Be sure that your knickers are made of some attractive material, that they fit well, and that the blouse which goes with them looks well. See to it that you have neat, well fitting wool or cotton stockings, and shoes with a low, sensible heel (not runner Cuban or French ones).

Cupid is a good little sport, but the girl who thinks he will overlook these details and help win a mate for a girl who looks more like a tramp or summer hobo than a pretty girl out for a day's hike, is casting love and marriage and everything to the four winds.

This is an age of freedom and independence, but no girl wishes to look her worst. The very fact that every hiker takes her powder puff and mirror along proves this. But a pocket mirror does not disclose the bag of her knickers, the blouse which makes her look like a scarecrow in a corn field, or her ridiculous runner high heeled shoes.

These are the mental pictures that Bob, Harry or Jack takes, and which will flash before him when he sees some other girl hiker who has thought twice about her knickers, her blouse and a good, sensible sport shoe which meets a trim ankle.

Therefore, girls, when you go hiking with Cupid give just as much thought to your costume as you do when you go to a lawn fete or a dance.

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN

Since President Doumergue of France is unmarried, Mme. Audry, his niece, becomes the first lady of the land in the French Republic.

Bee-keeping is an ideal occupation for women, according to Mrs. Sheba C. Hargreaves, who has attained wonderful success with the honeybees.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Correct Ironing.

Summer dresses are less apt to fade if ironed on the wrong side and pressed lightly on the right for a finish. Linens should always be treated in this manner to bring out the luster.

Prevents Sticking.

Sometimes a table pad is, not satisfactory and leaves lint sticking to the surface of the table. If this should occur, cover one side of the pad with thin muslin and keep that side towards the wood.

For the Kiddies.

Don't forget, in these hot days, the children can be kept in the pink of condition by cutting down the amount of meat and giving them plenty of fresh vegetables, salads and fruits, not forgetting the ever-healthy milk.

Save the Box.

The paper carton in which the quart of ice cream arrives, when washed out with hot water and dried quickly, will prove just the thing for packing picnic sandwiches. They can be saved and individual lunches packed in each one, if time is at a premium and lunch must be eaten while traveling. It would save a great deal of disturbing and passing of food.

Mending Glassware.

There are several good preparations for mending broken tumblers and other glassware, but the following is highly recommended by a housewife, who claims the mended article can be put into boiling water without breaking apart.

To make the preparation add one part solution of bicarbonate of potash to five parts of gelatin. Cover the broken edges of the glass with this, press them together and stand the mended article in the direct sunlight for a few hours. If neatly done the break will not be visible.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

What the Little Happy Jacks Learned

No chance for knowledge ever spurn;
From all that happens something learn.

—Mrs. Happy Jack.

"You fell into that pile of brush, didn't you?" asked Mrs. Happy Jack.

They were back in the dear home tree. How blessed it was to be there. How safe he felt!

His brother and two sisters gathered around him. They had seen his narrow escape from Redtail the Hawk, and they were full of eager questions. They wanted to know how he felt; if he was dreadfully frightened; and a lot of other things. But Mrs. Happy Jack put a stop to all these questions. She told them to keep quiet, for she had some questions to ask herself.

"You've just had," said she, "one of the narrowest escapes I've ever seen in the Green Forest. Now I want to know what you have learned from it."

The little Happy Jack hung his head. "I've learned that it doesn't pay to disobey," said he in a very low voice. "I've learned that I don't know as much as I thought I did. I've learned that Redtail the Hawk is more to be feared than I had dreamed."

"Very good," said his mother. "What else have you learned?"

But the little Happy Jack couldn't think of anything else. Then she asked the other little Happy Jacks if they had learned anything else from their brother's dreadful experience. They shook their heads. They couldn't think of anything else.

"You fell into that pile of brush, didn't you?" asked Mrs. Happy Jack.

"Yes'm," replied the little Happy Jack.

"If there had been no brush there you would have been caught, wouldn't you?" continued Mrs. Happy Jack.

"I know!" cried another little Happy Jack. A pile of brush is a piece of safety."

"Right," replied Mrs. Happy Jack. "Never forget it."

We Want You to Know

Temtor preserves, jellies, syrups and apple butter are put up right here in St. Louis. Come out to our kitchens at Michigan Avenue and Davis Street and we'll make you welcome. We are as proud as any good housewife to show our kitchens, to show you how we put up your preserves and jellies.

You'll envy our cooks. Nothing to distract their eyes or their minds from the recipe and the kettle—no youngsters running in, no doorbell, no telephone. And they have the most modern things to work with. Small wonder, you'll say, that every glass or jar or tin of Temtor has "that good old home-made taste."

We cannot put the taste, the flavor in fruit, grain and sugar. Nature herself does that. But we keep it in. Our task is to preserve nature's flavor and taste for you.

We want you to know that all Temtor foods come from those kitchens right here at Michigan Avenue and Davis Street and that it is the biggest plant of its kind in St. Louis. We own our plant and properties. We have no contingent liabilities and we discount our obligations.

We want you to be interested in these facts, for we grow and prosper only as our business becomes your business.

In food there is no successful substitute for purity. Only the fruits themselves and pure cane sugar are used in Temtor preserves and jellies. Temtor apple butter is prepared with the same care and skill. So are Temtor syrups.

Have your grocer send you one of the Temtor preserves or jellies next time you phone. You'll soon be buying it by the case.

THE LAND OF TALL MEN.
PIE READ is one of the largest men in the writing game or, for that matter, in any game. Anywhere outside of a congress of professional sideshow giants, he would attract attention. He has height, width and depth.
You know, how much larger a man looks with his clothes off than he does when dressed for company? Well, one day, Read was stretched out on a couch in the cooling-room of a Turkish bath when a stranger coming in from the steam-room and blinking as the sweat ran down his face, spied the great bulk and halted. He wiped his eyes clear and then approaching the other said in a reverent voice:
"I beg your pardon for addressing a perfect stranger, but you have aroused my curiosity. Would you mind telling me who you are?"
"Not at all," said Read. "I'm a jockey."
On another occasion a gentleman who had just been introduced to Read at the Chicago Press Club, paid an involuntary tribute to the writer's proportions and general dimensions.
"Up in this country I pass for tall," explained the behemoth, modestly, "but down in the mountains of Tennessee, where I was born, I would be regarded almost as a runt. They breed sizable people down there. As a matter of fact, I was the dwarf of my family."
"For example, I had a cousin who got into politics as a young man and made quite a reputation as a campaigner. They used to call him a stump speaker, but that was a mistake. Because he never got on a stump. They had to dig a hole in the ground for him to stand in."

ASKING FOR THE DETAILS.
YOU must have heard of the young woman just out of the finishing school who went to the stationery store and purchased a very large order of writing-paper and pencils and the like, and when the clerk who had waited on her expressed surprise that she should require so great a supply, replied sweetly:
"Oh, I shall need it all. You know, I'm going to take up writing. I'm going to write a novel."
"What sort of a novel?" inquired the salesman.
"Well," said the expectant author, "it will be about as long as Victor Hugo's 'Les Misérables'—only much stronger."
I am not prepared to match this with a little yarn concerning a youth in the Corn Belt, whose ambitions were equally great. From his home in Illinois he wrote to the director of an Eastern art museum explaining that he felt the call of creation, but was undecided yet as to whether he would be a painter or a sculptor. After detailing his symptoms at length, he wound up his letter with the following simple request:
"Please send me full particulars about..."

Dr. Glueck Lays Crime to Defendants' "Disordered Personality"; No Parallel
in Sing Sing.

BY PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—It was Richard Loeb who struck the blows and administered the gas which killed Robert Franks, while Nathan Leopold Jr. was driving the car in which the murder was committed. This fact was established today. The defense itself brought the fact out on the direct examination before Judge Caverly of Dr. Glueck, noted New York psychiatrist and gland specialist. Dr. Glueck took the stand again today after a few minutes in the witness chair late yesterday, when he identified himself as former head of the criminal division of the Federal hospital for deranged soldiers and sailors at Washington. He has lectured at various universities on mental disorders, and is a specialist in criminal insanity. He studied in Berlin and Munich and for two years was in charge of a psychiatric clinic established at Sing Sing prison by the Rockefeller Institute. Although 41 years old, he looks at least 15 years older. A heavy, dark-featured man, whose massive head is heavily fringed with iron-gray hair, he spoke with a serene, unruffled calm.

Tells of the Killing.
Dr. Glueck said Loeb told him that he did the killing. "In the most matter-of-fact way, and without a trace of feeling, he gave me all the details of the murder, including the fact that he struck the blows," the witness replied, in answer to a direct question from Benjamin Bachrach, defense attorney. In their confession, Loeb and Leopold each declared it was the other who struck the blows, and neither has publicly discussed the matter since. Judge Caverly adjourned the morning session when State's Attorney Crowe made an insinuating remark as to Dr. Glueck's notes of his conversations with Loeb. Crowe insisted that the witness immediately produce the notes relating to Loeb's striking the fatal blow. Dr. Glueck found a note in his memorandum book which, he said, was sufficient reminder to him of what Loeb said on the subject. This note read: "Abnormal lack of emotional response in face of intact knowledge of crime."

Judge's Dander Up.
Crowe desperately inquired if that identified to the witness that Loeb had said he struck the blows, and the witness replied that it did, but that he might have something more to it. Crowe said to produce it. Judge Caverly suggested that Crowe go on with something else and let the doctor go through his notes at the noon recess.
"No, sir, I don't want him to produce a note here in any hour and a half. I want him to produce it now," Crowe declared. "That's a perfectly gratuitous insult," declared Bachrach, and Dr. Glueck flushed. Judge Caverly rose to his feet, plainly out of patience. "This court is adjourned until 1:45 o'clock," he announced. "I'm not going to waste half an hour here on a trivial thing like this."
Dr. Glueck announced at the afternoon session that he had been unable to find any further references to his notes to what Loeb had said about striking the blows.
Dr. Glueck's Conclusion.
The conclusions of Dr. Glueck corroborated those of his colleagues, Dr. William A. White of Washington, and Dr. William Healy of Chicago.
